The newest university in Hungary was established on 1 July 2016 as a successor to the College of Kecskemét and the College of Szolnok, which were integrated by a parliamentary decision. The university, following the traditions of the predecessor institutions, is a significant centre of higher education and research where students on BSc and MSc courses can get their diplomas in Engineering, Information Technology, Economy, Agricultural- or Teacher training.

The university - cooperating with its strategic partners - is the creator of the dual training model in Hungary.

Higher educational vocational training courses based on secondary education and postgraduate courses for students with diploma offer chances of getting new qualifications.

Scientific workshops of the university publish their achievements at national and international conferences and in Hungarian or foreign journals.

Students of the university can learn in modern, well-equipped buildings; accredited laboratories, libraries and training places support their preparation.

Special courses, scientific and artistic associations, competitions are all part of talent management.
